Terrible Explosion.

Many Lives Lost at Hartford Connecticut.

A VERY GREAT CALAMITY.

The Boiler in a Hotel Lets Go and Almost Entirely Destroys the Building—The Innates are Pinned to the Ruins are Literally Roasted to Death—Searching for the Victims.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 19.—The shock of a tremendous explosion awoke the residents for blocks around the corner of High and Atlyn streets, at about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. On that corner stood the Park Central Hotel, a five story brick structure, about thirty feet front and one hundred feet deep. The first to arrive on the scene found this building a heap of ruins, from which issuing smoke and steam in dense clouds and the spectators were appalled by the shrieks and groans of many human beings who were imprisoned in the mass of timber and masonry, from which flames were already bursting.

A general alarm immediately summoned the fire department, and an immense crowd attracted by the explosion and the fire soon packed the streets in the vicinity. At first the fire and smoke entirely prevented any attempt to rescue the victims, and it was not until a flood of water had been poured upon the ruins that the work could be prosecuted. A few dead or dying persons were taken from the edge of the debris, however, within an hour after the explosion. The force of the explosion threw a woman upon the heavy door of the house, which had burst open. By 9 o'clock the flames were so far subdued that the rescuers were enabled to get at some of the victims.

Stone were plucked beneath heavy timbers upon which rotted masses of masonry, rendering the work of rescue extremely hazardous.

The dead body of Dwight M. Buell, of this city, was taken out at about 10 o'clock. George Gaines, night porter of the hotel, was taken out dead. Harry Stiffle, a commercial traveler of Philadelphia, who remained on the third floor, was taken from the ruins considerably bruised but he remarked that he was "all right."

The house had accommodations for about one hundred guests and was a favorite over Sunday stopping place for commercial travelers. An attiring guest, who applied for room last Saturday evening, was informed that they were full, so it seems probable that at least eighty persons were in the house at the time of the explosion, of which, perhaps, twenty escaped uninjured. These were mostly waiters, who occupied an annex, or wing of the house extending to the east.

The catastrophe is generally supposed to have been caused by the explosion of the boiler, although some doubt has been expressed on this point, as the building had been positively supposed to be unsafe. It was built on "made ground." The street department and the railroads have furnished their forces of laborers with jacks, etc., and the work of searching, torches is now going forward in a systematic manner.

At 10 o'clock the "military call" was sounded on the firebell, calling for the military companies to assist in preserving order.

The hotel had built about fifteen years ago and cost with furniture $120,000. The soil was soft and although the building was carelessly put up, it soon settled badly. About five years ago Mr. Kettell took the lease and renovated and retouched the house. Insurance is $8,000.

The list of dead taken from the ruins up to the present time is as follows:

D. H. Bush, jeweler, of Hartford.

George Loomis, colored boy.

J. G. Engler, drug clerk, of Hartford.

John W. Housman, traveler for Revere Rubber Company, Boston.

J. C. Hill of Buffalo, N. Y., commercial traveler.

Louis B. Bronson, secretary of the Hartford Steam company.

Wife and young daughter of Mr. Bronson, George Kettell, brother of landlord.

Eddie Kettell, aged 11, son of the landlord.

George W. Root, aged sixty, of Brockport, N. Y., traveler for Weller, Williams & Company, Boston.

A. H. Tibbott, traveler for the Merrill Chemical company, Cincinnati.

Unknown man, forty years old, brown hair, slightly bald, heavy mustache, light eyes.

Unknown man, forty years old, black hair, mustache and goatee, weight about two hundred pounds.

Two more bodies, a man and woman, were in sight. Total, sixteen.

The list of injured at the hospital is:

Helen Leppert, of New Britain, scalp wounds and lacerations.

Emelie Crimar, of Avon, bruised and scratches.

Jacob R. Turpin, colored barber.

Walter M. Gay, of Bayonne, N. J., suffered from exposure.

A New York agent of the Higginson Manufacturing company.

Henry Steffel, of Philadelphia, commercial traveler, sprained ankle.

Wellington Ketchum, proprietor of the hotel, bruised.

Wife of Mr. Kettell, general bruises.

James Decker, of Unionville, broken leg.

Michael Corrigan, of Unionville, bruised.

John James, agent White Star line.

All the above are doing well.

The work of extricating bodies went on last night with the aid of electric lights. Many strangers arrive in town on all trains. The crowds around the ruins are kept back by the first regiment of militia. Some of the bodies taken out are badly disfigured and burned, but in many cases the faces are unburned and retain no trace of suffering. The present estimate of the number of persons in the building is fifty, of whom twenty-six are accounted for—sixteen dead and ten injured.

The police did good work in keeping order until the militia were called out to relieve them. The lower floor of Judah & Roots wool warehouse was converted into a temporary morgue, where the coroner, medical examiner and assistant physicians cared for the victims until the dead could be identified and the injured removed to hospitals. The city provided caskets for the unclaimed bodies. Most of the bodies bear comparatively few marks of burns. Death seems in most cases to have been due to suffocation or conussions.

The register of the hotel has not been round, and Night Clerk Perry is buried in the ruins, but estimates agree pretty closely that about fifty persons were in the hotel.

The authorities are overwhelmed with telegrams of inquiry from people in all parts of the country who fear that friends or relatives may have been in the hotel.

When the explosion occurred the whole Stevenson brick building collapsed into a confused pile of masonry and timbers, except a part of the roof, where a tier of rooms remained standing, but with the partitions torn away so that the interior of the room was visible. Some of these rooms afterward crumbled down with their occupants upon the debris below. There were only a few shrieks and moans heard, then all was silent. The fire which began to burst forth was soon extinguished by the firemen. The servants occupied an annex in the rear and were got out by ladders from the windows, the staircase having been demolished by the fall of the main building. A few of the more excitable employees jumped to the ground, but were only slightly injured.

For secretary of state—James G. Blaine, of Maine.

For secretary of the treasury—William Windom, of Minnesota.

For secretary of war—Jeremiah Rusk, of Wisconsin.

For secretary of the navy—John R. Thomas, of Illinois.

For secretary of the interior—J. W. Noble, of Missouri.

For attorney general—W. H. H. Miller, of Indiana.

For postmaster general—John Wanamaker, of Pennsylvania.

For secretary of agriculture—Warren Miller, of New York.

Friends of the president-elect believe that this is the last toby, and that it will stand, unless Mr. Miller declines the agricultural portfolio.

The News, referring to the list as given above says: "This is the cabinet of the Harrison administration. If it appears within the next few days that there is any good reason why one or two of the men who have been doubtfully chosen should not be taken into the circle of presidential advisors, changes may be made, but it is understood to this time after having carefully considered all information concerning them that could be obtained, it is not the intention of the president-elect to make any changes. However, it is still within his power to leave out any or all of the men named excepting Mr. Blaine without breaking any promise, and all others of cabinet positions will, it is said, be held under his control for a few days longer. It is with this reservation that he has delayed so long in taking action against the pseudo mahdi at Khartoum."

The present Benoussi is the son of the founder of the order or brotherhood. The father, in 1849, was obliged to flee from Mecca, where his principles and the strictness of his life had made him many enemies.

Returning to North Africa (he was an Algerian) he settled at last in the oasis of Oujda, on the southern border of Barka. Thousands of Moslems flocked to him and at his capital, Jaraboud, enormous buildings were erected.

He is the center of a religious empire which extends on one side to Senegambia and the other to Mesopotamia, and which has the adherents of more than a million and a half of subjects.

The present Benoussi succeeded his father in 1859 and became the undisputed and promptly obeyed master of all the "Kwanza" of the world, who see in him the true mahdi, the "guide"—or rather, the "well-guided"—destined to re-establish the power of Islam.

Ostensibly the Benoussites are not a fighting order, their object being to unite all the orthodox Moslem orders of the world into a theocracy independent entirely of secular authority. Though they profess to repudiate political influence, however, they will tolerate no rivalry.

If, then, it is true that the dervishes have gone forth from Barka that the khadija of Khartoum is to put down the whole of North Africa will willingly obey the command and Mahdist will be surely crushed, though this would be of benefit to European influence in the interior of Africa, it is questionable. The followers of Benoussi lead a rigidly ascetic lives. They may not even smoke, much less indulge in wine, and it is extremely dangerous for any Christian to be found within sight of their oasis.

The present Benoussi succeeded his father in 1859 and became the undisputed and promptly obeyed master of all the "Kwanza" of the world, who see in him the true mahdi, the "guide"—or rather, the "well-guided"—destined to re-establish the power of Islam.

A representative of the United Press, by careful inquiry among gentlemen who are very close to the president-elect respecting the names given, established to his satisfaction that the list, while not official, pressed that point very closely, hence it is given as the best possible information obtainable on the subject at this time.

President Harrison's Special Train.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 19.—The schedule for the special train to convey Gen. Harrison from Indianapolis to Washington was made up in this city yesterday. The president-elect will occupy the special car of President Roberts, of the Pennsylvania railroad, and will leave Indianapolis about noon on Monday, February 25, passing through this city at 2:15 a. m. February 26, and will arrive at Washington at 2:30 p. m.

He Was Not a Victim.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 19.—R. J. C. Pendleton, of this city, was reported as being one of the victims of the Hartford hotel disaster, telegraphed his son here that he left the hotel on Saturday to spend Sunday with another son in Vermont, and stayed just long enough to miss the accident.

Steward of the White House Selected.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—President-elect Harrison has selected for steward of the White House Hugo Ziemann, of this city, who will accompany Gen. Harrison's household to Washington when they depart from Indianapolis. Mr. Ziemann is a German, and has been employed as head-waiter at one of the large restaurants in this city for a number of years, coming west from New York with Warren Leland.

Nobles Admits His Selection.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—It is reported here on what is deemed excellent authority, that Gen. John W. Noble has admitted to an intimate friend that he had not only been offered but had accepted the cabinet position of secretary of the interior.

Citizens of the President-Elect.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 19.—Charles Harris Carl Protzel, of Cincinnati, who wants to be governor of Alaska, was here again yesterday presenting his claims for the position and recommendations and letters from various persons. Col. Smith, of New Mexico, and J. H. Cheney and Rev. J. W. Denison, of Bloomington, Ill., also called on Gen. Harrison to pay their respects. Mr. Denison is the man that denied the story during the campaign that Gen. Harrison had denounced the Irish in a speech at Bloomington some years before. The general gave Mr. Denison a warm reception.

The Deadlock Breaking Up.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 19.—Two votes were taken yesterday for the United States senator. The Democrats broke badly, eleven of them leaving Kenny, six of whom voted for Wilson. The closing vote stood: Goff 40, Kenny 28, Wilson 6, cast scattering, necessary to a choice 41. There is a rumor which gains credence to the effect that a secret arrangement has been made whereby the three labor members will vote for and elect Goff, and that Carr will then be elected governor.

THOMAS STEVENS.

A Minister Dies in Apoplectic.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Rev. Father William J. Lane, of the Church of the Visitation, died of apoplexy last night, aged forty-five years. He was ordained in 1900 at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19,

THESE FELLOWS WHO ARE ETERNALLY KICKING ON THE POOR MANAGEMENT OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS, AND NEARLY EVER THINKING MAN DOES KICK—WHETHER OPENLY OR SILENTLY—WILL DO THE PROPER THING BY LOOKING UP AVAILABLE BUSINESS MEN FOR THE COUNCIL. IT SEEMS TO US THAT THINKING MEN OF BOTH PARTIES OUGHT TO ABANDON PARTISANSHIP THIS SPRING AND ELECT CAPABLE MEN TO OFFICE. WE DO NOT ASSUME THAT ALL THE PRESENT COUNCILMEN ARE INEQUABLE AND UNWORTHY—PERHAPS THE THOUGHT—but THERE IS ROOM FOR VAST IMPROVEMENT. WITH A CONTEMPLATED OUTLAY OF $125,000 FOR SEWERAGE AND OTHER IMPORTANT PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS THEREFORE SHOULD BE BUSINESS MEN OF UNUSUAL EXPERIENCE GUIDING THE COUNCIL'S AFFAIRS.

There are reforms to be inaugurated. The money that goes to street improvement, and is annually depleting the treasury, should go into improvement that improves and in needed locations rather than to pay political debts. The city tax is made up of plums that are too small and worn-out for tax paying to jeopardize their interests to gain partisan advantage. There are capable men who can be induced to serve, and they ought to be nominated and elected.

WHILE THE OHIO LEGISLATURE ARE TRYING TO DISCOURAGE "ITINERANT DOCTORS" BY A FINE OF $100 A DOCTOR, IT MIGHT BE WELL FOR THEM TO REMEMBER THAT THERE ARE SEVERAL OTHER CLASSES OF PEOPLE WHO GO ABOUT THE COUNTRY PRACTICING ILLEGAL AVOCATIONS WHO MIGHT BE REACHED BY SIMILAR LAWS. PRACTICERS, ACTORS, TEACHERS, LECTURERS, COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS, SCIENTISTS, SKILLED MECHANICS, POLITICAL SPEAKERS, AND NUMEROUS SPECIALISTS, ARE CONSTANTLY GOING TO AND FRO UP AND DOWN IN THIS STATE, ATTENDING TO THEIR BUSINESS. IF ALL WERE FINED $100 A PIECE A YEAR, WHAT A REVENUE COULD BE RAISED!

IT PAINS US TO HEAR NOTHING OF A NEW OPERA HOUSE WHILE ALL THAT IS GOING ON REGARDING NEW BUILDINGS. SENSES COME AND GO AND WE STILL HAVE THE REMNANTS OF THEM—BUTTHE OPERA HOUSE, UNION DEPOT AND THE NEW CAIRNS, OF THIS TRIMMATE OF THINGS LOOKED FOR—THAT-DO-NOT-COME, THE OPERA HOUSE SOLELY IN CONTROL OF MARIONETTE AND NO OTHER SOURCE WILL EVER BUILD IT. WE DON'T GET A NEW OPERA HOUSE, OR AT LEAST A RAISED FLOOR AND ENLISHED SEATS, OUR AMERICAN LOVING PEOPLE WILL BECOME A RACE OF CRANED NECKS AND CALLUS FUMPS. AND WHAT A CALAMITY THAT WILL BE!

WHAT A JOKE IT WILL BE IF MARION SHOULD GET TO THE FRONT AND PIPE WYANDOT CO. GAS TO THIS CITY BEFORE UPTER SANDUSKY STIRS UP FEELING ENOUGH TO PIPE IT INTO THAT PLACE. THIS IS HARDLY PREDICTABLE, OF COURSE, THOUGH POSSIBLE, FOR UPTER SANDUSKY TALKS MORE THAN THEY PERFORM. PRETTY SOON WE EXPECT THE CRAZY PEOPLE UP THERE TO HAVE THEIR MAIL DIRECTED TO "U. S. A." WHICH MIGHT STAND FOR UPTER SANDUSKY. BUT I LEAN, AND IT WOULD REALLY BE HARD TO CONVINCING THE WYANDOTS, BUT WHAT THAT WOULD BE SUFFICIENT, SO GREAT DO THEY EXPECT TO GROW.

BRAZIL RECEIVED 130,000 IMMIGRANTS LAST YEAR AND EXPECTS 200,000 THIS YEAR. THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC HAS APPROXIMATELY 800,000 TO FOSTER THE BUSINESS OF YOUNG FOREIGNERS WITHIN HER BORDERS. SOUTH AMERICA IS LOVING TO SOLVE OUR ALLEGED EXIT OF EX-SATIVE IMMIGRATION WHILE RELIEVING THE INFECTIVE DESPOTISM OF EUROPE OF SOME OF THE MOST DEADLY TOES—THE DISCONTENTED MASSES BEHIND THEIR ARMS.

JOINED FROM THE RIPPLES ON THE SURFACE, WHICH CAN NOT TELL OF A CONTEST BELOW, CERTAIN DEMOCRATS ARE IN THE FIGHT FOR THE STATE SENATORSHIP TO SUCCEED MR. PAYNE. THE EQUALITIES IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN THIS STATE GIVE THEM REASONS TO HOPE A DEMOCRATIC LEGISLATIVE MAY BE ELECTED THIS FALL.

INSTRUCTIVE ENTERTAINMENT FOR PROGRESSIVE MEN AND WOMEN.

An Inexpensive and Simple Contrivance That Yields a Large Spectrum—Interesting Absorption Experiments May Be Made in Connection with This Apparatus.

The solar spectrum is always a delight to the eyes of every person having normal eyesight, and it is an easy matter to produce it by means of a prism. When a prism is not available, it may be produced in the manner illustrated by Figs. 1 and 2 in the cut here reproduced from Scientific American, which explains this inexpensive method as follows:

A SIMPLE APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING THE SPECTRUM.

The materials required are a piece of mirror, 5 or 6 inches square, a dish of water, and a sheet of white paper or a white wall. The mirror is immersed in the water and arranged at an angle of about 60 degrees; this angle, however, may be varied to suit the direction of the light. The incident beam reflected on the mirror is refracted on entering the water and dispersed. It is further dispersed on leaving the mirror, and still further upon emerging from the water. By causing the reflected beam to strike obliquely upon the white paper or wall, the spectrum thus produced may be made to cover a large surface.

Should the sun be too high or too low, the proper direction may be given to the incident beam by means of a second mirror held in the hand. The diagram, Fig. 2, shows the direction of the rays.

Some interesting absorption experiments may be made in connection with this apparatus. For example, colored glass, or sheets of colored gelatine, may be placed in the reflected beam. If red be placed in the path of the beam, red light, with perhaps some yellow, will pass through, while the other colors will be absorbed, and will not, therefore, appear on the wall. With the other colors the same phenomenon is observed. Each colored glass or gelatine is transparent to its own color, but opaque to other colors. In a similar manner a piece of red paper or ribbon placed in the red portion of the spectrum will reflect that color, but if placed in some other part of the spectrum it will appear dark, the other colors being absorbed or quenched by the colored surface.

Should the sun be too high or too low, the proper direction may be given to the incident beam by means of a second mirror held in the hand. The diagram, Fig. 2, shows the direction of the rays.

With the Empire fashions in dress have come new fashions in furniture. The dark hangings and dusky tints of the aesthetic period have vanished. Early English has given place to late French. The gloom given place to a flood of white and gold and the tints of spring, the clematis, the violet and the daffodil. White and gold are the favorite colors for furnishing bedroom and boudoir, or white and silver, with faint and delicate hints. Furniture and colored brocade, Curtales were supplied of deep coral red wool. The windows introduced to hide exterior views were of rolled cathedral glass. The change was that of enchantment, securing a quiet, peaceful, rich effect, the upper portion of the room full of a softened light, appearing equally well in the glow of artificial light and the ruddy flame of the fire.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

A Dismal Room Pleasantly Transformed Through Appropriate Decoration.

There are many dismal rooms, defective in their light and with unattractive outside views, which only require the art of the decorator to render them pleasant. Decorator and Furnisher tells of a dining room which was lately taken in hand by an expert. The wood work of grained oak and the brown paper on the walls absorbed much of the very indifferent light, the gloom being increased by various combinations of color. A greenish yellow paper with flowering damask pattern was selected for the frieze. The paper was a conventionalized rose, closely interwoven, the coloring golden emerald green dotted work, ground of varied cream tints with warm touches of cream color. This, neither yellow nor green, provided for the reflection of light.

The ceiling was tinted creamy yellow, a few lines of deeper color in the cornice, this ceiling giving a golden glow contrasted with adjacent tones. The middle wall course or picture space was changed from brown to a plain citron olive distemper color; the molding above and small molding below were painted gray blue. The skirting and doors also were of gray blue, giving contrast to the wall. The dado was of russet olive. Warmth of effect was secured by painting the gray mantels a deep crimson toned vermillion red, the overmantel the same relieved by brass ornaments and colored brocade. Curtains were supplied of deep coral red wool. The windows introduced to hide exterior views were of rolled cathedral glass. The change was that of enchantment, securing a quiet, peaceful, rich effect, the upper portion of the room full of a softened light, appearing equally well in the glow of artificial light and the ruddy flame of the fire.

"Will you have a piece of this nice mutton, Tom?" said Tommy's ma, with whom he was taking his dinner.

"Please, um-um," replied the little fellow, holding his plate, "but you might put two pieces on now; mamma has taught me never to pass my plate back for the second piece."

Mamma says:

—An exchange sounds this note of warning to its country readers: “Produce sharpers are getting in their wack. —Col. S. R. Donavan's lecture, at the Baptist church Monday evening, was not so largely attended as it doubtless would have been had he come when there were no other attractions. It is a pleasing though very deliberate talker. His introduction was a history of slavery, the Kansas Agitation and the Missouri Compromise, which so fired the heart of the famous John Brown that the Harper's Ferry Insurrection was raised in 1859. His description of the place, the arrest, trial and execution of John Brown was given in detail and he closed with a very beautiful and eloquent oration, crediting Mr. Brown with striking the first blow that shattered the shackles of three millions of human slaves.

—Some people do not seem to realize the fact that when a grocery man or a fruit man sells his goods out where they may be seen, he doesn't intent that every one who happens to pass by is to help himself. Often we see persons who are supposed to have been raised in a proper manner shove their hands down in a barrel of flour and help themselves to whatever it may contain. This not only shows bad breeding and uncleanliness, but is criminal. It everyone were to help themselves in this manner the merchant would soon be compelled to put all his goods away where they could not be seen and suffer a poor trade or shut up his business entirely. It is a matter that is not considered of much importance by some, but it amounts to a great deal, nevertheless.

—An Improvement.

—An improved headlight for locomotives is an adjustment which allows the engineer to conveniently turn the light, as he may desire, to various points on the line. The lantern is supported on a frame or platform, which has a movement to the right or left about a vertical axis, and also up and down by the same means, the operating mechanism leading back to the cab, so as to be within ready reach of the engineer. He is enabled by the arrangement to examine dangerous or doubtful parts of the road, and in stormy weather to turn the light upon threatening trees or masses of earth or rock upon either side, and which are liable to fall. The device also permits of the lantern being turned so as to throw the light across sharp corners and exhibit the line of the track at some distance ahead of the train and at points which would be entirely out of reach of the light in its usual fixed position. According to the usual construction and employment of locomotive headlights, they are fixed to the engine front in such a manner that the light is always thrown forward and concentrated in one line only—this being, of course, an inadequate arrangement in the case of sharp curves.

—The judges attached to Leffler's meat wagon, standing hitched near his home on south West street, became frightened at some object and started to run away, Monday afternoon. —George Ober was greeted with a fair-sized audience at Music Hall Monday night and a pleasing rendition of the strange case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde was given. Mr. Ober and his wife are always favorites here, and they increase their popularity at every visit. The strange play is full of fascination, and the spectator to the word action is filled with thoughts of its application to real life. How many real Jekyls and Hydes do we do have—though not in such extreme characteristics as Mr. Ober portrays them.

—An exchange sounds this note of warning to its country readers: “Produce sharpers are getting in their wack. A neatly printed circular is being sent to the farmers offering a price for poultry about double the figure that the honest dealer can afford to pay. The farmer jumps at the offer as a rule, and ships his chickens to the hussy dealer, expecting to receive his money in a day or two, but he never hears from the sharper, unless it be when the next poultry season rolls around and the swindler renewes his fraud under a new name.”

—Col. S. R. Donavan's lecture, at the Baptist church Monday evening, was not so largely attended as it doubtless would have been had he come when there were no other attractions. It is a pleasing though very deliberate talker. His introduction was a history of slavery, the Kansas Agitation and the Missouri Compromise, which so fired the heart of the famous John Brown that the Harper's Ferry Insurrection was raised in 1859. His description of the place, the arrest, trial and execution of John Brown was given in detail and he closed with a very beautiful and eloquent oration, crediting Mr. Brown with striking the first blow that shattered the shackles of three millions of human slaves.

—Some people do not seem to realize the fact that when a grocery man or a fruit man sells his goods out where they may be seen, he doesn't intent that every one who happens to pass by is to help himself. Often we see persons who are supposed to have been raised in a proper manner shove their hands down in a barrel of flour and help themselves to whatever it may contain. This not only shows bad breeding and uncleanliness, but is criminal. It everyone were to help themselves in this manner the merchant would soon be compelled to put all his goods away where they could not be seen and suffer a poor trade or shut up his business entirely. It is a matter that is not considered of much importance by some, but it amounts to a great deal, nevertheless.

—An Improvement.

—An improved headlight for locomotives is an adjustment which allows the engineer to conveniently turn the light, as he may desire, to various points on the line. The lantern is supported on a frame or platform, which has a movement to the right or left about a vertical axis, and also up and down by the same means, the operating mechanism leading back to the cab, so as to be within ready reach of the engineer. He is enabled by the arrangement to examine dangerous or doubtful parts of the road, and in stormy weather to turn the light upon threatening trees or masses of earth or rock upon either side, and which are liable to fall. The device also permits of the lantern being turned so as to throw the light across sharp corners and exhibit the line of the track at some distance ahead of the train and at points which would be entirely out of reach of the light in its usual fixed position. According to the usual construction and employment of locomotive headlights, they are fixed to the engine front in such a manner that the light is always thrown forward and concentrated in one line only—this being, of course, an inadequate arrangement in the case of sharp curves.
